

DryShips Inc. Announces the Withdrawal of its Public Senior Secured Notes Offering

Athens, Greece, October 13, 2014 – DryShips Inc. (NASDAQ: DRYS) (the "Company" or "Dryships") today announced that it has withdrawn its previously announced public offering of $700 million of its senior secured notes (the "Notes") due to current market conditions.

George Economou, the Company's Chairman and Chief Executive Officer commented:

"The current market conditions have led us to conclude that our offering of the Senior Secured Notes was not in the best interests of the Company. We continue to work on our plan to re-finance the $700 million, 5% Convertible Notes that are maturing on December 1, and we have earlier today signed the firm commitment letter from ABN for the Bridge Facility of up to $350 million, which now only remains subject to final documentation. This, together with cash in hand and the previously announced Nordea refinancing which would result in about $100 million of net proceeds, considerably narrows our actual funding gap and provides a clear path forward that makes us confident we will be able to refinance our convertible notes in a timely manner."

Forward-Looking Statements

Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 provides safe harbor protections for forward-looking statements in order to encourage companies to provide prospective information about their business. The Company desires to take advantage of the safe harbor provisions of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 and is including this cautionary statement in connection with this safe harbor legislation.

Forward-looking statements reflect our current views with respect to future events and financial performance and may include statements concerning plans, objectives, goals, strategies, future events or performance, and underlying assumptions and other statements, which are other than statements of historical facts. The words “believe,” “intend,” “anticipate,” “estimate,” “project,” “forecast,” “plan,” “potential,” “may,” “should,” “expect” and similar expressions identify forward-looking statements.

The forward-looking statements in this release are based upon various assumptions, many of which are based, in turn, upon further assumptions, including without limitation, management’s examination of historical operating trends, data contained in our records and other data available from third parties. Although we believe that these assumptions were reasonable when made, because these assumptions are inherently subject to significant uncertainties and contingencies which are difficult or impossible to predict and are beyond our control, we cannot assure you that it will achieve or accomplish these expectations, beliefs or projections.

Important factors that, in our view, could cause actual results to differ materially from those discussed in the forward-looking statements include the strength of world economies and currencies, general market conditions, including changes in charterhire and drilling dayrates and drybulk vessel, drilling rig and drillship values, failure of a seller to deliver one or more drilling rigs, drillships or drybulk vessels, failure of a buyer to accept delivery of a drilling rig, drillship, or vessel, inability to procure acquisition financing, default by one or more charterers of our ships, changes in demand for drybulk commodities or oil, changes in demand that may affect attitudes of time charterers and customer drilling programs, scheduled and unscheduled drydockings and upgrades, changes in our operating expenses, including bunker prices, drydocking and insurance costs, changes in governmental rules and regulations or actions taken by regulatory authorities, potential liability from pending or future litigation, domestic and international political conditions, potential disruption of shipping routes due to accidents and political events or acts by terrorists.

Risks and uncertainties are further described in reports filed by DryShips with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission.
